Blumenthal & Cohn.

This firm, which has so long been noted for introducing novelties in the clothing line, is getting into the field early, as usual. They have just received a large invoice of hats and shoes from Chicago. No man need wear an old, dingy, weather-beaten Winter hat any longer after this display is put on exhibition. They have also some very neat and suitable foot wear. They attire a man from neck to heel, and then round off each end in a most attractive way. A man who has once passed through their hands is indeed well calculated to excite admiration from his less favored neighbors.

Reno's Envy.

The Reno Gazette, in mentioning the ore discovery near this city, affects to be quite pleased with it, but mentions it as "a vein of high grade ore several inches in thickness." The fact is, it was a vein seven feet in thickness.

—There will be no paper issued from this office tomorrow.

—A. Livingston has rented the old Scott Saloon for his wholesale department.

—It is reported that Mr. Olding who collected for Bray has suddenly left for San Francisco.

—The price of hay is falling in Washoe valley, and will continue to decline as the grass starts up.

—Wm. Latimer, an employee of the Pioche Record for the past fifteen months, skipped by the light of the moon last week, with several hundred dollars in his pocket and a number of unsettled bills behind. The paper brands him as an unprincipled scrub.

—No other Spring medicine has won for itself such universal confidence as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is the most powerful combination of vegetable alteratives ever offered to the public, and is acknowledged by the medical profession to be the best blood purifier.

—Hugh S. Thompson, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, decides that smooth worn coin, made so by natural abrasion, is not to be considered as mutilated coin and that there is no law or regulation under which it could be declined at the United States Treasury.

A German Scandal.

LONDON, February 20th. —There is likely soon to be an explosion of German wrath over the Crown Prince's bed. It seems that the Germans have a notion that Sir Morrel Mackenzie, at the beginning of the Prince's illness, refused to perform an operation, fearing immediately fatal results. He hoped that by keeping the Prince alive the Emperor might die first, and by the accession of the Prince to the throne the English Crown Princess would attain imperial rank and an immense fortune, which she would miss if her husband died before his father. This suspicion of a conspiracy to benefit the English is expected soon to find expression.

Referred to the Capitol Commissioners.

ED. APPEAL:—I would like to ask you if private individuals have any right to use State water and connect private buildings with State pipe. Yours,

A TAXPAYER.

[The APPEAL has no legal knowledge of this matter. "Taxpayer" is referred to the Capitol Commissioners.—ED.]

Mr. Dahl at Fault.

Mr. Dahl, President of the North Carson Mining Company, is in San Francisco, and continues to deny by telegraph that the North Carson has been jumped. If he will take the trouble to come up and look for himself he will find a notice a foot square tacked on his tunnel door and recorded in the Recorder's office.

The Mt. Vernon Cyclone.

The wiping out of Mt. Vernon, Ill., by a cyclone caused immense destruction of property and the loss of many lives. It is the most terrible wind storm of many years. This sort of things are what will increase the Spring rush to the West.

THE LATE JOSEPH COWEN.

—Buried in a Coffin He Selected for Himself Four Years Ago.

Joseph Cowen, formerly of this city, was laid to rest on Sunday last in San Francisco, in the coffin he had selected for himself four years ago, and which he had placed beyond the reach of purchasers. It was an exquisite casket which held all that was mortal of the esteemed undertaker. The exterior was very plainly covered with black cloth, but the interior was a marvel of skill and beauty. The coffin opened lengthwise, and was not provided with a glass. Costly white satin draperies covered all sides and the lid, and handsome white silk bows were distributed throughout. An artistically engraved plate bore the name of the deceased, the dates of his birth and demise, and in a corner was a facsimile of a Grand Army badge. The features of the deceased looked natural, and the body was clothed in a handsome black satin shroud.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the hearse drove from his late place of business to Calvary Church, where an immense crowd waited to pay the last tribute to their departed friend. The hearse was preceded by a firing party of the G. A. R. and the members of the Funeral Directors' Association. The hearse followed with the following pallbearers on each side: S. C. Wright, Dr. R. E. Williams, C. R. Hansen, H. Adler, J. B. Whittemore, R. E. Kelly, Atkins Massey and J. C. G'Connor. Two delegates from each of the following secret organizations acted as honorary pallbearers: I. O. O. F., K. of P., K. of H., O. C. F., and the Masons.

The services at the church were conducted by Rev. Dr. Kerr, with music by the choir. The altar was covered with handsome and costly floral tributes, noticeable among which was a large representation of a hearse, drawn by two horses, with a driver on the seat and a coffin inside. It was an offering of the Funeral Directors' Association, and measured seven feet in length and four feet in width. The thirteen secret and benevolent associations of which the deceased was a member were largely represented and followed the remains to Odd Fellows' Cemetery, where, after the services held by the G. A. R. they were deposited in the vault.

Chinese Homicide.

On Saturday night Ah Gin, a highbinder from this city, went down to Reno on the annual New Year jamboree of his creed, where he met Ah Chung in a smoking den and demanded some money the latter owed him. Ah Chung was reclining on a smoking couch watching a game of dominoes, when Ah Gin entered and immediately approached Chung and began showering expletives at his debtor. Chung protested, when Gin drew a revolver and fired two shots at his victim, both taking effect, one striking the left leg below the knee and the other penetrating the left groin, severing the femoral artery. A stampede immediately took place and in a second the dying celestial was the sole inmate of the shanty. Chinatown was soon in an uproar, and during the excitement the murderer made good his escape. But little attention was paid to the wounded man, and before he was extinct, the tom-toms and "swinnettes" were again grinding out merrily as merrily as before. The body of Chung was removed to the morgue and an inquest was held yesterday. Owing to the lack of interest taken in the case by the Chinese, and their evident desire to shield the murderer, it is thought that the murderer will not be apprehended.

The Most Agreeable

Dance Tonight.

The Carson Debating Club will have their dance at the Armory Hall this evening. They have made very careful preparations for the event, and almost everybody is going.

PACIFIC COAST ITEMS.

—The Sentinel newspaper office at Yaqina, W. T., was destroyed by fire Sunday.

—The San Joaquin Valley Railroad route will not touch Fresno, and the citizens are very indignant.

—Vancouverites rejoice in the resignation of Judge Turner, who decided against the Woman's Suffrage law.

—Anschlag, the Garden Grove murderer, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree. Sentence will be pronounced on Friday.

—Four prisoners Saturday knocked down the old keeper of the Redwood City Jail and escaped. Two of them have since been recaptured.

—Los Angeles is a healthy country for coal merchants, cows and hens. Coal is $30 per ton, butter $1 50 per roll, and eggs $1 49 per dozen.

—The remains of Captain Irving of the lost bark Abercorn and twenty-one of his crew were buried in one grave on the shore near the scene of the wreck at Grey's Harbor.

—Experiments will be made this season with several new varieties of grain and grasses by Nevada ranchmen. Good forage plants that will flourish without irrigation are what some of the stockmen are trying to find.

—A mob of railroad graders at Billings, M. T., have secured food from the County Commissioner by threats of violence. If the higher officials of the road do not satisfy the demands of the men arson and riot are feared.

—Azbell, who killed McArdle and Reardon, two young men who had squatted on his lands in Monterey county and whose first trial on the charge of murder failed of conviction, has been admitted to bail in $20,000.

—James Tufts, formerly of this city, for three years past editor of the Placer County Republican, published at Auburn, Cal., has become sole proprietor of the paper. He has made it one of the best interior weeklies in California, and the people of Placer should give it a liberal support.

—Heavy waves breaking over the Tillamook Lighthouse, at the mouth of the Columbia river, have bent the iron rods, three inches in diameter, nearly double, and whole pieces of the rock have been separated. The lighthouse, in the fury of the late storm, swayed like a reed, and several glasses were smashed. It is feared that the rock on which the lighthouse is built may suddenly disappear.
